COMMUNITY

The spirit of the Old West is alive in Florence, Arizona and the cowboy culture that earned the nickname "Cowboy Cradle of the Great Southwest" is firmly rooted here. Residents and visitors alike are kept busy with Florence's annual event calendar, historic attractions and proximity to popular regional attractions.

Positioned halfway between Phoenix and Tucson Arizona along State Route 79 and 287, Florence is in the center of the Golden Corridor, the growth corridor between two of the fastest growing metro areas in the country. The Town is a rural agricultural community in Pinal County and serves as the county seat. Indian agent Colonel Levi Ruggles staked and platted the Town in 1866. At 1,493 feet in elevation, Florence is situated on a level plain around the Gila River.

Natural landmarks offer interesting punctuation to the great western views – Poston Butte just to the north, and the magnificent Superstition Mountains beyond. Look south to the vibrant colors of the lower Sonoran desert stretching to the Mexican border. Outdoor lifestyles are enhanced by the region's mild desert climate.

GOVERNMENT

Florence, being one of the oldest towns in Arizona, is proud of its history and the designation of the historic downtown as a National Historic District. The town strives to strike a balance between preserving the past and preparing for the future so that an authentic sense of place is maintained and new growth and revitalization is encouraged.

The Town of Florence is a council-manager governed municipality whereby Town Council is the policy-making body and the appointed Town Manager is in charge of the day to day operations. The Mayor and a six-person Town Council are elected to four year terms.

Florence is a full-service town and provides a full array of public services including police, fire, public works, community services (including parks & recreation, library and senior center,) and community development. The Town also owns, operates, and maintains its own water supply and wastewater treatment plants. Our Strategic Plan provides a critical roadmap for the Town and staff as development activity in and around the Town limits increases in the coming months and years.
